The Gas Strategies interview: Martin Houston, Chairman of Parallax Energy and former COO at BG Group

Martin Houston worked for BG Group for more than 30 years, and is widely credited as one of the key architects of the Group's leading LNG business. In February of this year, he retired as the COO and in March moved to Houston to establish Parallax – an energy investment company which is now active across the energy chain. His interview with Gas Strategies explores viewpoints Houston expressed in recent speeches on some of the key challenges facing the LNG industry.
