Rough storage site may partially return to action in November – CSL

UK-based Centrica Storage Limited (CSL) has forecasted that it could make 20 wells at the UK's Rough Storage site available for withdrawal from November, but sources told Gas Matters Today that the country may still face tight supply while maintenance continues.

CSL had previously estimated that it could return four wells to service by early November. Rough – the UK's largest storage site – is scheduled to remain offline until spring 2017 for an investigation into well integrity issue detected in March 2015.
