Transport could be ‘major new sector’ for LNG – Shell director

LNG as a shipping and road fuel may present a substantial growth opportunity for Royal Dutch Shell, the company's director of integrated gas Maarten Wetselaar said this week.

“It is a major new sector with a good affordability and a sector that given our downstream industry – our downstream footprint – we are very well placed to serve,” he said at the company's Q3 2016 results presentation this week.
