Suriname awards offshore blocks to ExxonMobil, Hess and Statoil

Suriname's state-owned energy company, Staatsolie, has awarded production sharing contracts (PSCs) for two offshore blocks, offering Block 59 to a consortium of ExxonMobil, Hess and Statoil and Block 60 to Statoil alone.

Located in the highly prospective Suriname-Guyana basin, the two blocks were awarded to the three companies following Staatsolie's 'Open Door Policy Offshore Suriname' tender. The PSCs are expected to be signed by the second week of July.
