LNG in India – Asia’s sleeping giant?

While China and India are frequently flagged up as key drivers of LNG demand in Asia, there is considerable ambiguity – specifically with respect to India, on the extent of this demand. Forecasts for gas demand range from the wildly exuberant to the cautiously optimistic. Gas Strategies attempts to demystify India’s LNG market potential by identifying the key catalysts in its unfolding gas story from two main angles – first, the market opportunity for LNG in India, and second, aggregate Indian LNG demand competing within the international market for LNG supplies.
