Brussels ploughs EUR 228 million into strategic gas infrastructure

The European Union (EU) is allocating EUR 228 million across ten strategic gas projects, including grid and storage expansions and an LNG development in Croatia, as part of broad financial support for infrastructure to support the so-called Energy Union.

The Krk LNG regasification terminal in Croatia is due to receive up to EUR 102 million towards a study for chartering an FSRU as well as for construction works.
