Crude oil prices sprang back into life on Monday after US president Donald Trump left hospital and returned to the White House to convalesce, after claiming he had tested positive for Covid-19. Brent soared 5.1% to USD 41.29/barrel and WTI gained 5.9% to close at USD 39.22/barrel, erasing losses incurred in the prior three trading sessions. Prices were also buoyed by growing hopes that a US economic stimulus package would be forthcoming.

US gas benchmark Henry Hub also bounced on rising US Gulf Coast LNG exports and fears that tropical storm Delta could shut-in production yet again this storm season. Henry Hub spiked 7.3% to USD 2.62/MMBtu in Monday's session, outpacing gains on European hubs NBP and TTF, which rose 3.8% and 3% to close at the equivalent of USD 4.88/MMBtu and USD 4.63/MMBtu, respectively.

CME's November-dated JKM futures contract rose 0.5% to USD 5.05/MMBtu, erasing Friday's losses.

The European carbon price softened in yesterday's session, as month-ahead ETS allowance (EUA) futures fell 0.3% to close at EUR 26.92/tonne.
