Top news roundup: BP's pension woes amid new CEO, Red Sea shipping halts, US LNG review

The LNG sector was hit hard this week as companies suspended vessels from travelling via the RedSea, following attacks by the Iran-backed Houthis.

Meanwhile, BP's pension scheme dispute hit parliament via a Westminster Hall debate initiated by MP for Orkney and Shetland Alistair Carmichael. Undersecretary for pensions Paul Maynard agreed to discuss BP's scheme with the pension regulator.

The UK supermajor also appointed its fulltime CEO this week as former CFO and interim chief Murray Auchincloss stepped into the role.
