‘To survive, we have to keep making LNG better’: Rob Bryngelson, CEO, WaveCrest

For Rob Bryngelson, CEO at Macquarie-backed WaveCrest Energy, life after Excelebrate Energy, the floating LNG pioneer he co-founded and led until 2018, required him to tap into the enthusiasm that drove him when he started his career.

“Wisdom and experience are amazing, but over time I stifled a lot of the excitement and innovation I was trying to project 20 years ago,” he tells LNG Business Review.

“When you build up a company and are managing more, you get away from that. It becomes more about the company than what you’re trying to get done. When I left Excelebrate and we started WaveCrest, I got more involved in the day to day again. And that’s what I realised I’d missed.”
